“ It brings my heart comfort knowing that you are at rest, little brother. It doesn't quite feel like you're in a better place, because to me, selfishly, a better place would be right here in my arms, or on your computer-- knowing you'd be right there when i'd walk into your room. Nevertheless, I know you're walking on streets of gold, rejoicing with your Heavenly Father who is holding us all in these moments, just as he is holding you for eternity. The list would be far too long for this page if I were to begin naming things about that we are all going to miss about you, and I know there will be an entirely new list with different things tomorrow. Yet I know that the thing that we will all miss the most is being able to show you how much we love you, each in our own ways. You made us all so happy, and we will also rest with the assurance that you will continue to make us all happy until we see you again. But until then, we'll do our best to make you proud.
