“ Dylan

A loving, honest, caring team player. His kindness will remain one of his greatest attributes, and his joyful state when being around friends is something I will hold onto forever.

Over a year ago, we met for the first time at auditions. He politely asked me to read with him, and it only took a few seconds to see him for who he was: a curious individual with an undeniable need to express love. He was selfless and generous.

The last time we were together, we were lucky enough to reminisce about how our paths crossed and the journey we embarked on during the production of "Romeo and Juliet". On that night, I learned "The Phantom of the Opera" was your favorite show, and upon asking why, you shed a hundred layers that unveiled what was beneath the surface.

You are and will always be missed, my dear Dylan. I am sending love and prayers to your family and to you, wherever you are. You won't ever be forgotten.
