“ One of my first memories was walking the aisle as ring-bearer in Uncle Greg and Aunt Lois’ wedding. As a four-year-old I thought it was a dazzling occasion and I still remember the beautiful bride and groom. I remember how Uncle Greg came home covered in soot from work at the Seagraves carbon plant. He often worked a “graveyard shift” so I thought he worked in a cemetery for years. I miss the times when our families gathered to play “42” and eat pecan pie. I remember Brenda and Denise singing hymns, in harmony while aunt Lois played. I will miss Uncle Greg, but I know he has good company to shuffle dominoes with now. My deepest condolences,
