“ I think about you all the time. Even now, 7 years later. You’re imbedded in my souls and heart until I die and get to see you again in heaven. My heart and body aches when I think about the moment I lost you. My perspective in life has changed. I cherish the little things. Ruby and Cristian and I are closer than ever now because we know our time together is short lived and only God knows how long we will be together on this earth. We think about you all the time, all the great memories as children and as adults. It was a blessing having you as my baby brother for 24 years and forever grateful to God for those years we spent by your side. I’ll see you on the other side brother. ❤️

“ Thanksgiving Day... 24 days before you left this earth. I felt it in my heart that this was a moment I needed to capture. I marinated the image in my mind before I took your picture and made sure I captured the right angle. Still remember the smirk you gave me when I texted to you immediately after I took it. I was in the kitchen making you a breakfast sandwich, which you devoured 2! Food was your thing! Woke up early to pick you up and treated you for a Starbucks coffee. I am seriously so happy that God gave me 24 beautiful years of your life! I wouldnt change anything in the past because its the past that united us 4 super tight. Growing up it has always been us 4... we cared and loved each other so much! You still live in my heart and mind and will never be forgotten. I love you little brother and no one could ever take that away. The Lord only knows our pain but we are faithful and have hope that we will unite once again.

“ You will always be my high school sweetheart, my soulmate, and my best friend. I thank God for all the years He has given me with you. Our precious memories will always be cherished and will remain in my heart forever. No one will ever replace what we had. Your smile, smell, and everything about you was perfect in my eyes. How you always motivated me to strive better and never settle for less. I miss all the goofy and fun times we had in our first apt. Words can not express how much I miss you. I love you forever and always. Our happy memories will forever be with me. - Your girlfriend, Liz.
