“ We cherish the sweet memories of my mother, Jean Cox. She was a true servant to her extended family, friends, church and community. Many friends in Panhandle have beautiful handmade creations that she sold at bazaars, including Santa gourds, Christmas decorations, handmade dolls and fairies, paintings, and much more. She sewed outfits and doll clothes for us growing up and continued to do so for her grandchildren. Mom handmade matching outfits for Dad and Brent as well as the two of us. Church members would come by the nursery every Sunday to see what beautiful matching outfits the twins (granddaughters) were wearing. She shared her creative, artistic passion with me, crafting in the summer, taking watercolor classes together, providing crayons and butcher paper for drawing from an early age, and encouraging my interest to pursue art in college and life. She carried on this tradition with her grandchildren, crafting with them on their summer visits to Panhandle. We have beautiful arts and craft pieces they created together, including hand painted dishes, ceramics and other treasures. Most of all, we miss her quick witt, shopping, talking and laughing together. She was more than a mother; she was our best friend. You will be forever in our hearts and look forward to the day when we will all be reunited again in our eternal home.
