“ So very sorry to hear of her passing, she so wanted to see Hunter and I. But unfortunately we didn't make it. Aaron and Jarod and family know if there is anything we can do, we will. We loved her corky smile, her infectious smile. Our deepest sympathy. Hunter and Jody Houghtaling

“ I am heart broken to hear about your precious daughter. She wanted me to come visit her but I couldn't because I broke my collar bone. I am so sorry for your precious loss. I can't imagine all her struggles. My prayers are with you all. 🙏❤️ Amy Rose “ Never in a millions years, will I find the words that fit just right, to describe the crazy overload of emotions created by the footprints you have placed all over my world. You will forever be My Sister. We didn't grow up as besties....we created besties later in life. You came into my world when I needed you most....we went through some pretty crazy adventures over the years. I never knew until here of late how much of a Blessing you have been and will continue to be for me. You will forever be the light to my Darkness no matter where my life takes me. All i know is that I will cherish the memories that we have created over the years and look forward to the many more we will create in the future. Until we Meet again. I love you mostest!

“ Jenny was an angel on earth and now sits among those in heaven. She was feisty, determined and always knew what she wanted. But there was so much more to her. She had a tender heart - her love for her family, her love for animals and her devotion to projects she believed in were a testimony to this. I loved Jenny and I know she loved me. She had the capacity to show that love to all she was close to. Rick and Debbie raised a pure spirit in Jenny. As much as I love her I know she's where she belongs: no more pain, no more frustrations for what she cannot do . Best of all she's in the loving arms of the Lord. Rest in total peace, my girl. Your Auntie M
