“ Hi Grandma - I miss you so much everyday. Some days are worse than others. I take comfort in knowing you are not weighted down by mental anguish or emotional pain any more. I pray that you are happy and at peace. I hope you are smiling down at us and holding Rhonda whom you've missed for so long. Please visit me and those who are struggling the most. I'll be praying for our family for strength and healing. I love you more than words and I miss you even more. Thank you for wrapping me up in your love my whole life and protecting me and guiding me. I have a lifetime of memories and teachings in your voice inside my head. I love you. I love you. I love you.

“ Dear Mom, Thank you for my life, and for all the good in me - most of it came from you. Thank you for the courage and strength you displayed throughout your life and this past year. Thank you for forgiving me for all that I did wrong, and that which I simply did not do. Never once, at any time in my life, did I ever feel anything but unconditional love from you. I can't let go right now, but I know you would want me to. So, in time, I hope my tears and the emptiness I feel will go away, and I will be left only with the fond memories of your life and your love for me. Rest in peace Mom, now and forever. Your son, John
