“ From all the Atwoods team, he will be greatly missed. I couldn't remember a time when he didn't come in a put a smile on our faces even if it was a rough day. It didn't matter what he was going through, he was always smiling and cracking jokes. Always made my day. To the family, we are so sorry for this great loss. Our thoughts and prayers are with y'all.

“ One memory that lives forever with great laughter is back in high school, Raymon use to always brag about he could eat anything especially hot stuff. I introduced / dared him to down a little container of fresh made real Chinese "hot mustard".. in Raymon fashion he slammed it in his mouth.. OMG we all thought he was gonna need to go to hospital. He turned redder than red, broke out in sweat, coughed coughed coughed jumped around, spun around ..etc.. Drayke, Robert and I were rolling on floor with non-stop laughter. When Raymon got under control he said "MOM what the hell was that, are you trying to kill me"--Hehehehe---.. this story followed us to everytime, no matter how much time had passed when we saw each other, it's the first thing we brought up and would just bust out in laughter again. I love that boy, he was such a joy to be around. We shared so much time with 7th thru senior years, and after. RIP sweet man.
