“ There hasn't been a day gone by since you left that I haven't thought of you. Your huge smile, your laugh... You were one of my dearest friends. The day you passed away we spoke about our friendship and how we needed one another more than the other one knew. Brother sister type shit. Then you took off walking down that long country road that we had traveled together so many times. You told me you didn't want a ride, you would walk because it was such beautiful morning. And it was. Your destination being your truck parked where you took your last breath and I wish like hell I could go back in time and change it. I miss you. I still for a split second will reach for my phone to call you and tell you something funny or ironic I heard. Just to be reminded you are not going to reply. I love you my brother. Your spirit lives on within those you touched, and there were so many. Rest in peace.

“ I was made to feel comfortable and safe whenever I had the pleasure of spending time with Scotty and our other friends.... This was unusual since I had just recently moved to the area and knew no one when I arrived. Fortunately Scotty was one of the very first people to become part of my life here and I loved him like my own son. I will be looking for him when I arrive in heaven, R.I.P Scotty

“ Scott and I met might near 5 years ago is what it's workin at as of now. At first seen as a very polite young man/kid.. Shortly after making his acquaintance a very strong brotherly love/bond had grown between us. Very selfless kind hearted young man.. I loved him like a little bother. No doubt the love I had for him was mutual.. A life that had eneded waayyyyy too soon. I love you Bubba.. Rest in peace little brother.
